

Nixon Lifts Secrecy on Laos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid congressional charges he is dodging demands for disclosure of U.S.-Laotian involvement, President Nixon has ordered the public release of American casualties and air losses as they occur in the Southeast Asian country.

In announcing the policy change Monday night, the White House disclosed six civilians were killed in Laos last year as the result of hostile enemy action.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the administration will immediately "inform the American public about all military aircraft losses and military air personnel casualties in Laos once search-and-rescue missions are completed."

Ziegler said this is the same policy followed on Vietnam losses. In the past, casualties in Laos have been lumped with those of Southeast Asia as a whole.

Of the six civilians, all described as having support rather than active military roles, three were killed by ambush, one was shot as he was piloting a helicopter, and two were killed by what the White House called possible hostile fire.

Three worked for International Voluntary Services, described as a Peace Corps type organization, and three for Air America, an airlifter of supplies, equipment and people.

Both organizations were under contract with the Agency for International Development, the State Department said.

Meanwhile, the Los Angeles Times reported in today's editions that CIA agents posing as members of the agency are involved in military operations in Laos.

The Times' story from Jack Foisie in Vientiane estimated the number of CIA agents at several hundred. The newspaper said their activities include recruiting and training pro-government guerrillas, detecting enemy troop movements, and acting as ground controllers for aircraft.

The White House confirmed Sunday that Joseph K. Bush Jr., an Army captain, was killed in Laos Feb. 10, 1969, in an exchange of fire with North Vietnamese commandos. The administration said his death did not occur in combat action.

At Temple, Tex., the widow and parents of Bush said the government never tried to keep secret the location of the 25-year-old captain's death.

Carol Bush, 24, said she had known "all along where Joe was. And when he was killed, the government made no attempt, so far as I know, to keep it quiet that he had been killed in Laos."

The White House kept a tight lid of secrecy, however, on how much money the U.S. is spending in Laos.

The White House statement came after a day of Senate debate on U.S. involvement in Laos. Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., accused the administra-

Hanoi and the War—Proposal for Peace

EDITOR'S NOTE: Daniel De Luce, who recently returned from an 18-day visit to North Vietnam, examines in this dispatch the attitude in the North toward an end to the war.

By DANIEL DeLUCE

Have the North Vietnamese made any significant change in their views on ending the war? The language of diplomacy is slippery at best. Assessments must come from those with day-to-day knowledge of the maneuverings on both sides.

But during my 18-day stay in North Vietnam, my hosts appeared eager to press on me a message they seemed to regard as significant.

They are willing to agree to a cessation of all hostilities in South Vietnam, a Foreign Ministry spokesman told me, if the United States is prepared to make a commitment now to withdraw all American and allied forces from the South in the future.

"All problems about South Vietnam are linked to the United States' withdrawal of all its armed forces," the Foreign Ministry spokesman said.

"If the United States will agree to carry out such a withdrawal, discussions can be held and a date agreed on for completion of the withdrawal. Conditions will be assured that all foreign troops will be able to leave South Vietnam in perfect safety and without harm."

The spokesman offered this version of North Vietnam's position of March 3 in receiving two representatives of The Associated Press at the conclusion of an authorized 18-day visit to his country.

Previously, on Feb. 25, Vice Premier and Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh discussed in an Associated Press interview the terms under which it might be possible to agree to a standstill cease-fire with U.S. forces.

To a written question on cease-fire terms, which had been submitted 10 days earlier, the vice premier replied in writing:

An AP Special

"As has been stated in the 10-point over-all solution of the National Front for Liberation and the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam, on the basis of its principles and content, the parties shall reach understanding to the effect of concluding 'agreements on the relevant questions with a view to bringing the war in South Vietnam to an end, and contributing to restore peace in Vietnam."

Asked in person to amplify his response about cease-fire terms to clarify the matter for foreign readers, he said:

"The main thing is that such an agreement must provide for the withdrawal of all American troops and for the right of the South Vietnamese to settle their problems among themselves. That means recognition of the independence and sovereignty of South Vietnam."

of how the world press had handled the interview.

The spokesman appeared anxious to have it clearly understood that cessation of hostilities could be arranged well in advance of a definitive peace settlement, but if all fighting were to be stopped at this time, an American commitment was required to withdraw all its military forces in future.

At the Paris peace talks, the Communist delegates have demanded that the United States "must withdraw all its troops and the troops of its satellites from South Vietnam without setting any condition."

There was no mention of any time frame in the discussion with me.

Small shifts in language have played a role in the diplomatic history of the Vietnam war.

In January, 1967, Nguyen Duy Trinh declared in an interview for The Associated Press that if American bombing stopped, talks "could" start with the United States. By the end of 1967, Hanoi was saying talks "would" start if bombing ceased. Soon after President Lyndon B. Johnson ordered bombing halted north of the 20th parallel March 31, 1968, the United States and North Vietnam agreed to open peace talks and the North Vietnamese began lifting a siege against 5,000 Marines at Khe Sanh. The talks started in Paris May 10. The end of all bombing in November 1968, led to expansion of the peace talks in January 1969, when South Vietnam and the Viet Cong joined the sessions.

Pathet Lao Sending Bid to Halt War

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The Pathet Lao said today it is sending a top-ranking officer to Vientiane at the "earliest date possible" to deliver the Laotian Communists' peace proposal to Premier Souvanna Phouma.

"The sooner the better," Prince Souvanna replied. He scheduled a Cabinet meeting for Wednesday to take up the proposal, which calls for a political conference of all Laotian factions, a provisional coalition government, establishment of a demilitarized zone, a standstill cease-fire and an end to U.S. intervention.

Meanwhile, North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao forces ambushed a small Laotian army convoy 14 miles south of the royal capital of Luang Prabang today, killing five government soldiers and seriously wounding eight others.

The Communist forces opened up with rocket grenades and automatic weapons as the trucks were moving on a road just off Route 13, the highway between Luang Prabang and Vientiane, 140 miles to the south.

The peace program is being brought from Sam Neua, the Pathet Lao capital in northeast Laos, by Col. Thavinh Sienkham. He is described as a senior aide to Prince Souphanouvong, the titular leader of the Pathet Lao and Prince Souvanna Phouma's half brother.

A statement outlining the Pathet Lao's proposal was broadcast by Radio Hanoi. A spokesman for Prince Souvanna Phouma said the government wanted to "get some more details first" before making a proposal of its own.

Referring to one of the key points in the Pathet Lao plan, calling for a "consultative political conference composed of representatives of all Lao parties," the spokesman said: "We don't know what they mean by all Lao parties."

The 1962 Geneva agreement recognized three political factions in Laos: Souvanna Phouma's neutralists, the southern rightists led by Prince Boun

Oum, and the Pathet Lao. The neutralists and rightists work together with U.S. support. North Vietnam supports the Pathet Lao. But from time to time subfactions develop with the neutralists and rightists.

The government spokesman said Prince Souvanna also hopes Prince Souphanouvong's letter would make such suggestions as a site for the proposed consultative conference.

Meanwhile, Western observers in Vientiane said they had no reports of any significant new fighting between government and Pathet Lao forces.

The five points broadcast by Radio Hanoi:

—A standstill cease-fire.

—A conference of all political parties on establishment of a provisional coalition government.

—A demilitarized zone where the political conference and the coalition government would function.

—A pledge by each party to refrain from reprisals against those who collaborated with another party.

—A halt to U.S. "intervention and aggression" in Laos.

Radio Hanoi broadcast a Pathet Lao peace proposal on Friday but diplomats regarded it as nothing new. However, more complete versions became available here on Monday.

An aide to Souvanna said the government had received the message from Souphanouvong, by saying: "We will be glad to receive the message."

In addition to the five points, the proposal in the Hanoi version called also for the withdrawal of royal Laotian forces from all areas it claims are "illegally occupied," resettlement of persons forcibly removed from their homes and payment of compensation to them.

American sources who found the proposals "interesting" said they were in favor of Laotians settling their problems themselves.

"This is the first explicit detailed scenario for negotiations," one Western diplomat commented. "This could be the beginning of something on their side."

But another diplomat said: "We're interested to see what the North Vietnamese reaction is to this."

Fatal Greenwich Village Blast Leads Investigators to Ulster Area

By WALTER S. CLARK

WOODSTOCK
Two plainclothes detectives from the New York City Bomb Squad were in this area again today working with key investigators of the state police seeking to uncover a possible link between high-intensity blasts in Greenwich Village and the seizure of a large cache of dynamite in a house in a secluded Shady wooded area.

It was reported that New York City police have confirmed a report that two detectives flew to this area early Sunday by helicopter. The aircraft returned without the officers.

A touch of mystery was injected into the investigation of blasts last Friday that destroyed a Greenwich Village townhouse, killing a college student militantly.

In a late development today the New York detectives extended the inquiry into the fatal blasts "as part of the investigation." They reportedly were questioning area residents of "several hippie communes" in this township and adjoining areas of Ulster County.

At the time of the confiscation of the large dynamite cache, found in five mail sacks stashed away in a crawlway in an abandoned house in Shady early in February, it was reported that the old house had been used for some time as a "hippie commune."

According to confirmed reports, it was learned that the office of District Attorney Joseph P. Torracca had been "alerted" of the presence of the New York bomb squad in this area, and it also was disclosed that Senior BCI Investigators Edward Shannon and Charles Teelon were working with the detectives along with key investigators of Troop F.

Efforts to contact local BCI officers today were futile, but one reliable source noted they were in the field, evidently working with the New York City officers.

The cache of dynamite, which presently is in storage at Hercules Powder Plant, consisted of 150 pounds of "high strength dynamite, 2x16 inches in size and 29 blasting caps.

The blasts in Greenwich Village that left the $100,000 brownstone townhouse owned by advertising executive James Platt Wilkerson a shambles, killed 23-year-old Theodore Gold, member of the radical Students for Democratic Society.

Brown's Civil Rights Buddy One of Two Killed in Car Blast

BEL AIR, Md. (AP) — State police today tentatively identified one of two men blasted to death by an explosion in their car as Ralph Featherstone, friend and civil rights associate of H. Rap Brown, on trial here on charges of arson and inciting to riot.

The blast, attributed by police to an explosive device, killed the man tentatively identified as Featherstone, 31, and another unidentified Negro on U.S. Highway 1 Monday night about a mile south of this community of 5,000.

Gov. Marvin Mandel of Maryland said a National Guard unit had been placed on standby alert. Mandel also said that the FBI was entering the case, and that all state police tactical units had been alerted.

A state police officer said the second victim's wallet contained identification cards bearing three or four different names.

"The victim is definitely not 'Rap Brown,'" he declared.

State Police Col. Thomas Smith said investigators "believed" the explosive device was "being transported by the people in the car," which was virtually blown to bits. It was pointed in the direction of Baltimore, 25 miles away.

Smith said there was "possibly" a connection with the Brown trial, which began earlier in the day in the Harford County Circuit Court.

Featherstone, born in Washington, D.C., was elected program director of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee—SNCC—in May 1967, when Brown replaced Stokely Carmichael as national chairman.

William M. Kunstler, a defense counsel at the recent Chicago riot trial who is representing Brown, described Featherstone as a "friend of long standing" of his client.

Smith said police found some "highly controversial" literature in the car, but declined to elaborate.

Smith said, "The position of the explosive device indicates that it was being transported. It appears that it was possibly on the passenger's side."

Brown's trial is on charges of arson and inciting others to riot and commit arson in connection with racial strife in Cambridge, Md., in 1967. It began Monday.

The trial was moved from Cambridge to Bel Air on a change of venue.

Newburgh Dissolves Relations Group

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (UPI) — The five member Newburgh City Council voted unanimously Monday night to dissolve the city's Human Relations Commission.

Mayor George McKneally, who introduced the resolution to abolish the commission, said the action was taken because of "abrasive actions in the past" by members of the body.

The Rev. John R. Sullivan, commission chairman, said he would take the mayor and the rest of the Republican-controlled council to court before he would allow the commission to be abolished.

McKneally, brother of Rep. Martin McKneally, denied that the action was taken to circumvent a State Supreme Court order that the city show cause why it should not reinstate, with back pay, George E. Butler, a human relations aide. Butler was recently told he was fired after the council passed a resolution to that effect, however, Butler said only Sullivan has the right to discharge him.

The council passed the resolution after Butler was accused of taking part in an incident where eight parents walked into a classroom at North Junior High School on Jan. 27 to al-

KINGSTON — "I'm innocent as far as murder or arson goes — I took the money out of the place but I turned it over to the party with me."

Those remarks came through the bars of a cell in the Ulster County Jail Monday afternoon to a Freeman reporter from Jimmie Boston Douglas, 27, a few moments after County Judge Raymond J. Mino sentenced the man who was convicted by a jury on Feb. 16 of the murder of 61-year-old Mrs. Theresa Carpino.

Judge Mino sentenced the accused slayer to a minimum of 20 years to a maximum of life in prison on the murder count, and imposed a sentence of a maximum of five years to an indeterminate minimum for the fire, to the state prison at Dannemora. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Immediately after sentence was passed yesterday, Harry Gold, attorney for Douglas during the trial, served notice of appeal on District Attorney Joseph P. Torracca. Gold told a reporter that he was appealing the conviction and sentence to the Appellate Division, Third Department of Supreme Court in Albany.

During the brief court appearance, Douglas appeared calm and when sentence was imposed he looked squarely at the judge. In the rear of the courtroom sat Douglas' young wife, a bride of several months.

Also in the courtroom was Alonzer Trammell, 50, formerly of Foxhall Avenue, who was a key witness during the Douglas trial. Douglas had testified that he didn't kill Mrs. Carpino in the Circle Bar and Restaurant that she operated on upper Broadway on the morning of July 1. He testified that Trammell set fire in the tavern after a tussle with the woman, who died of strangulation.

Trammell is under indictment for murder in the shooting death of 52-year-old Angel Rivera during an argument off Field Court on August 28, 1969. Trammell was in court yesterday and sat a few seats from Douglas. The former's trial is scheduled later.

Attorney Gold had told Judge Mino before the defendant was sentenced that "the defendant at the time of his arrest and now, maintains his innocence and at trial evidence showed that he was innocent beyond a reasonable doubt."

From his cell after sentencing, Douglas told a reporter, "I am innocent as far as murder and arson. I took the money out of the place. I'm not afraid if they gave me what belonged to me."

He explained the latter by noting that he felt he should be punished for taking the money bag from the tavern as he and Trammell left the place.

During trial testimony was offered that Douglas gave the money from the bank bag to Trammell at the latter's home after the two had left the upper Broadway establishment where Mrs. Carpino was strangled to death.

"When I go back to court, I'll prove that I couldn't have killed her (Mrs. Carpino)," Douglas told the newsmen as his young wife sat outside the cell awaiting her time to talk to the convicted slayer before he is transferred to the upstate prison—probably for a long time.

Con-Ed, Storm King Battle Set April 24

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The latest battle in the eight-year-old war concerning Consolidated Edison's Storm King Mountain project will be fought April 24.

The Federal Power Commission set the date for oral arguments Monday, five years to the day after the commission had granted a construction license to Con Ed for the $183.5 million project. The license was later thrown out by the courts.

Conservationists have successfully fought the proposed pumped storage hydroelectric project, maintaining it would destroy the natural beauty of the Cornwall area where the Hudson sweeps out of the wooded highlands at a point where the river is one mile wide.

Joseph C. Swidler, who headed the FPC when Con Ed first suggested the project, said last week that the Cornwall case was without precedent in the FPC.

"I think the FPC learned something from that project," added Swidler, who currently heads the New York Public Service Commission.

The Storm King project is designed to produce up to 2 million kilowatts over a 10-hour period by allowing water to drop 1,180 feet from the top of the mountain.

If ever put into operation, the project would use a 240-acre reservoir to be constructed atop Storm King as its storage area.

During the early morning hours when use of Con Ed power is low, the extra electricity would generate pumps that would push up to 12 billion gallons to the top of the mountain. The water would then be let back down to the Hudson through generators for electricity to handle peak demand in the early evening and, in the summer, during the day.

Or, Why Home Heating Oil Gives You MORE For LESS

According to a recent study by the National Oil Fuel Institute, daily hot water consumption figures for the typical family ran as follows:

Hand washing (the whole family)	12-15 gals.
Shaving (per shave)	3-5 gals.
Shampooing (per shampoo)	5 gals.
Showering (per shower)	10-15 gals.
Tub bathing (per bath)	10-15 gals.
Food preparation	6 gals.
Rinsing dishes	3-5 gals.
Automatic clothes washer (per load)	15-30 gals.
Automatic dish washer (per load)	15-30 gals.

Because the average American family uses 3 to 4 times as much hot water as it did a quarter century ago, the popularity of the "fast-recovery" oil water heater has grown rapidly.

However, the important thing to remember when comparing water heater performance is not necessarily the total volume of hot water required, but the unit's ability to meet your peak needs in a short time.

Just during the morning, for example, 75 to 100 gals. of water may be needed for hand and face washing, dishes, washing clothes, getting breakfast, etc.

It's then the oil water heater's ability to provide all the hot water you want, puts it far ahead of other units powered by other fuels.

For more information about oil for economical water heating and total home comfort, get in touch with your local heating oil supplier.

Ulster Slates Hearing On Sewer Improvement

TOWN OF ULSTER Sewer Improvement District. The sewer project for the town is expected to get underway some time this year after all preliminary arrangements and the matter of finances have been completed. The local law will set the rates and spell out what can and cannot be done by customers who will hook onto the system when completed. The law will also set a deadline for hooking up.

Leukemia Check

Miss Marie Bowman, a special project chairman for Leukemia and president of MODEL, a firm which provides planning and personnel to direct department store charm and modeling schools throughout the country recently presented a check in the amount of $1,648 to Dr. Simon Propp, president of the Upstate New York Leukemia Society. Part of the amount presented to Dr. Propp was raised in Kingston by the graduates of Britt's Charm and Modeling School with their fashion show "Kampus Kapers" which was held Sept. 19. Local students especially active were Miss Randi Aaron and Mrs. Frieda Whipple.

There will also be controls as to the type of waste that may be released into the sewer system by industry. A stipulation in the proposed local law will not permit the operation of private sewer systems when the town's system is in operation. The local law is mandatory in order to receive a state aid grant for part of the cost. An opportunity will be accorded all citizens to speak at the hearing.

State Pollution Hearing Here

ALBANY — Department of Health and representatives of local health agencies to discuss the implementation of departmental regulations governing diesel emissions. Requested to attend the meeting—which will encompass Ulster, Orange and Dutchess Counties — are all owners or operators of five or more diesel powered vehicles. The conference will be held at 1 p. m. at the Ulster County Office Building in Kingston. Dr. William R. Donovan, Regional Health Director, stated that, since the state regulation plan of enforcement in order to achieve more uniform compliance was first drawn up, two years ago, many firms have voluntarily complied. However, beginning in March, local health agencies, working in conjunction with the regional office, will proceed to implement a regional plan of enforcement in order to achieve more uniform compliance. The regulation governs not only the capacity of smoke emissions during operation of diesel engines, but also limits the idle time of vehicles. Standards, regulations and enforcement procedures of the State Health Department, of which Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham is Commissioner, will be explained at the meeting by speakers from the Bureau of Air Quality Control and regional engineers.

St. Mary's School to Stay Open With Lay Teachers Filling Gap

By JEAN F. DOLAN

KINGSTON — Rumors of the closing of St. Mary's School were dispelled today by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Harold E. Hicks, superintendent of Archdiocese schools in Ulster and Sullivan Counties. Queried on the rumors of the elementary school closing, Msgr. Hicks said that they stemmed from the fact that the Presentation Order will have to cut back the number of teaching sisters with the fall semester due to shortage of personnel and demands in other schools served by the order.

However, lay teachers will be employed to fill the gap. St. Mary's has been "very fortunate" in previous years, he noted. The downtown parochial school has had seven teaching nuns for eight classes, employing only two lay teachers.

The average ratio for most parochial schools in the Archdiocese has been one teaching sister for one lay teacher, while Regina Coeli School in Hyde Park has operated at a two to one ratio for several semesters. Although the Presentation staff will have to be reduced at St. Mary's in September, the school will continue to operate with the necessary number of lay teachers, Msgr. Hicks said that the Presentation Sisters will not be leaving in total.

Preliminary plans for consolidation of the three downtown parochial schools are being discussed. The schools which are in a five block area are

St. Mary's, St. Peter's and Immaculate Conception. It is noted that consolidation would permit continued operation of a Roman Catholic school to serve the area.

Msgr. Hicks consider the consolidation plan an "ideal situation." As soon as the status of St. Mary's School is clarified "within the week," more definite action will be taken on consolidation. No target date for the fall semester started

Monday and many parents were concerned about enrolling their children.

A mail campaign was started to archdiocese officials including Terence Cardinal Cooke and the Very Rev. George A. Kelly, superintendent of all Archdiocese schools urging that the school be kept open. Indications today are that St. Mary's will remain in operation for some time to come.

Ulster County Dems Give Nod to Samuels

By LYNN MULVANEY

PORT EWEN — Howard Samuels, Democratic candidate for the nomination for governor, was endorsed Monday night by the Ulster County Democratic Executive Committee meeting at the Capri 400 in Port Ewen.

In a closed vote, with about 40 persons in attendance, the committee also gave the nod to Theodore Sorenson, former aid to Robert F. Kennedy, for U.S. senator and to William Greenawald for the post of attorney general. The voting and the endorsement of the candidates is unofficial and carries no particular weight other than to indicate to candidates where their particular strength lies.

In the vote for a candidate for governor, it was reported that upstate industrialist Samuels received 15 votes, State Controller Arthur Levitt, 10; Nassau County Executive Eugene Nickerson, seven; former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg, four and former New York City mayoral candidate Mario Proccacino, one.

Sorenson was a winner over former U.S. senatorial candidate Paul O'Dwyer and Greenawald, a favorite of the New Democratic Coalition won handily over Adam Walinski, another aid to the late Sen. Kennedy.

The Ulster County Democratic Convention will be held Wednesday, March 18 at the George Washington School to nominate a slate of candidates for county-wide offices.

The list of unofficial candidates includes David Lenefsky for state senator, George Barthel for assemblyman, Joseph Saccoman for county treasurer and Alex J. Nirenberg for district attorney.

To date there have been no candidates for the nomination for Congress.

An Offensive on Measles

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The state will take the offensive against the disease. Although vaccination against an expected nationwide outbreak of German measles is presently carried out, there is late this year and next under a bill on Governor Rockefeller's desk today.

The Assembly gave unanimous final approval Monday to the bill which requires immunization of school children against the disease. The vaccination program will begin this Aug. 1.

Health authorities have predicted the outbreak of the disease which causes birth defects if it hits women in the early stages of pregnancy. School age children usually contract the disease in a relatively mild form, but they are its chief carriers.

The Assembly approved and sent to the Senate a bill to discourage price wars among milk dealers. The measure, by Assemblyman Frank Wallley, R-Castile, requires retailers to post signs to indicate when they are selling milk below cost.

Wallley, a Wyoming County farmer, said the bill did not set prices but was aimed at keeping smaller distributors from being forced out of business by larger ones. Several Democrats said they did not want to discourage consumers from finding the lowest prices available.

A color light code, whereby only police, fire and emergency operations ambulances could use flashing red light signals, was approved unanimously in the Senate and sent to the Assembly. Others, such as volunteer firemen driving their own vehicles and members of rescue squads, would use either blue or green lights.

TONY BOYLE
... A Stout Denial
(UPI Telephoto)

Mine Chief: No Wrongs

WASHINGTON (AP) — W.A. "Tony" Boyle, embattled president of the United Mine Workers, has sworn to God he had nothing to do with the slaying of his union opponent, Joseph E. Yablonski.

After taking an oath before reporters "to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth," the union chief Monday also denied rigging his election victory over Yablonski for UMW president.

"I categorically deny these scandalous, insulting accusations," Boyle said, then charged the news media and government agencies with unfairly linking him with Yablonski's death and election irregularities.

Yablonski, his wife and daughter were found shot to death in their Clarksville, Pa., home last Dec. 31 about three weeks after the election.

The 65-year-old Boyle said he never knew Silas Huddleston, a Tennessee local UMW leader who has been indicted along with four others in connection with the slaying of Yablonski.

In denying Labor Department charges of widespread violence, Justice Department officials said, it would not violate the Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination. They also maintained it would not be affected by Fourth Amendment guarantees against unreasonable search and seizure.

Boyle explained, because "for more than a month I have desired a proper judicial forum to respond to the outrageous charges in the press and before the subcommittee involving complicity in murder, the increase in pensions by our trust fund, blacklisting and lies asserted by those who should know better."

Lacking any other forum, he said, "I hereby swear to Almighty God to tell the truth, the whole, and nothing but the truth."

New Crime Tool Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has called for strengthening the federal anticrime arsenal by arming police with authority to force suspects to submit to fingerprinting, blood sampling and other tests.

In submitting the proposed legislation Monday to Congress, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell claimed enactment would provide federal investigators with a useful new tool.

He noted the only individuals who can now be fingerprinted are those who "have first been arrested on probable cause."

The administration bill would eliminate that restriction and require, instead, only "reasonable grounds not amounting to probable cause to arrest."

Mitchell did not define reasonable grounds, but the measure specified a federal judge, commissioner or magistrate would have to order the tests.

Among things a judicial officer could force a suspect to submit to, under the proposal, are fingerprints, palm prints, footprints, measurements, blood specimens, urine specimens, saliva samples, hair samples, handwriting exemplars, voice samples, photographs and line-ups.

The judge could order the tests after receiving an investigator's affidavit setting forth reasonable grounds to suspect a person may have committed a particular crime.

Because the proposal would require persons to submit to nontestimonial-type evidence, Justice Department officials said, it would not violate the Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination.

They also maintained it would not be affected by Fourth Amendment guarantees against unreasonable search and seizure.

Boyle explained, because "for more than a month I have desired a proper judicial forum to respond to the outrageous charges in the press and before the subcommittee involving complicity in murder, the increase in pensions by our trust fund, blacklisting and lies asserted by those who should know better."

Lacking any other forum, he said, "I hereby swear to Almighty God to tell the truth, the whole, and nothing but the truth."

All I did was make three 8 gallon purchases of Mobil Detergent gasoline from a single participating Mobil dealer.

He gave me a coupon for each purchase and, when I had 3, I gave them back to the very same dealer.

The next thing I knew, I had this beautiful ironstone coffee mug in my hand.

At this rate, think how easily I can get the whole set of eight.

If you want to get mugged at Mobil, you can do the same thing I did.

Wide Coverage for Naturalization on Wednesday

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — "Life Magazine" comes to Kingston Wednesday to record one of the county's most moving and colorful ceremonies — the swearing in of new citizens of the United States.

CBS Television will be on hand also as 17 persons take the oath of allegiance before presiding Supreme Court Justice T. Paul Kane in Ulster County Court House.

Arrangements for the wide news coverage were made by Harry M. Thayer, chairman of the board of WGHQ Radio which was twice honored by the Freedom Foundation for public service in its coverage of the naturalization proceedings during recent years.

Several members of the Life staff arrived in Kingston today to prepare for its coverage of the event, including visiting the homes of some of the candidates for citizenship. CBS is planning a half-hour film feature, according to Thayer.

Wednesday's proceedings will get underway at 11 a.m. in the Ulster County Court House with a color guard presented by the Ladies' Auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Joyce Shirick Post 1386 followed by a performance of the A Capella Choir of Kingston High School. Two Buglers of the High School Band will also perform before the packed courtroom and Boy Scouts of Troop 63 will serve as ushers.

The Daughters of the American Revolution will present individual flags to each of the new citizens and corsages will be given in behalf of Sheriff William B. Martin.

Guests will include members of Girl Scout Troop 150, and selected fourth grade students from Rondout Valley School.

The petitioners to be sworn in as citizens include: John Francisco Raggio, Lew Beach, Livingston Manor, of Peruvian nationality.

Some Financing for Lockheed As Aid to Military Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard says Lockheed Aircraft Corp. will be given interim financing to keep the giant C5 cargo plane and other military projects going.

"We've been helping them out and we'll continue to help them out until we get a final solution," Packard told newsmen Monday.

He said the payments will be made pending a decision on Lockheed's urgent appeal last week for $641.2 million. But the interim aid will be "very small" by comparison, he said.

Packard told the House Armed Services Committee there are two major alternatives for a final solution to Lockheed's "severe financial crisis": award substantial interim financing or negotiate a final over-all settlement of Lockheed-Pentagon disputes over contract prices for the C5 and three other weapons programs.

Bankruptcy, Lockheed reorganization and merger possibilities are also possibilities but have not been fully explored, Packard said. They "do not, at this time, appear to offer very attractive solutions to the problems," Packard added.

Regardless of the final decision, Packard said, significant financing must be provided "if the government is to obtain the vital products we currently have under contract."

He said he has asked Lockheed to supply specific details on its short-term money needs.

Final solution would require congressional appropriations.

Packard said, but "what we need for the next few months we can handle ourselves" from Defense Department funds.

The C5 program will begin mounting $30 million to $40 million monthly deficits late this year that would halt production if Lockheed does not get long-term financial help, Packard said.

He said it also would be impossible for Lockheed to finance the other three programs—shipbuilding, the Short Range Attack Missile and obligations on the canceled Cheyenne helicopter—if the company had to wait three to four years for settlement of the contract disputes.

Even military spending critics predicted Congress will appropriate most or all the extra money after bitter debate.

"We'd have airframes sitting down there that would never be completed," said Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich. "This is probably a case where we have to throw good money after bad."

Guard on Alert In Lamar, S. C.

LAMAR, S.C. (AP) — A school complex where an anti-integration melee erupted one week ago reopens today under the eye of state law enforcement officers and with National Guardsmen on the alert.

The Darlington County school board decided Monday to resume classes in the 700-pupil high and elementary school, scene of the outburst by white adults who overturned two school buses, injured Negro children and clashed with state troopers.

The school had been forced into midterm integration by federal court orders.

Wayne Seal, news secretary to Gov. Robert McNair, said the state would not make a show of force but would use "the methods necessary to protect the children of this school and to insure the continuation of public school education in South Carolina."

He would not disclose the number of state troopers and agents of the State Law Enforcement Division—SLED—assigned to protect the school.

About 150 highway patrolmen were called to this community of 1,350 last week.

Two units of National Guard troops were on standby, one in Lamar, the other in Hartsville, some 15 miles away.

J. P. Strom, chief of SLED, said, "We believe tensions have eased. We believe things have cooled off somewhat. But we are still maintaining a strong force in this area."

Twenty-nine of those accused of involvement in the melee last week, when white adults armed themselves with ax handles, chunks of cement and chains, have been charged with rioting, and are free on bail of $2,000 each.

In Columbia, seven Darlington County white men were warned by a federal judge that if they interfered with the operation of the Lamar schools they faced criminal contempt citations.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge J. Robert Martin Jr. issued a restraining order Monday.

The order was requested by U.S. Atty. Joseph O. Rogers, who said the seven interfered with the schools by committing "destructive acts" during the violent integration protest.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 10, 1970

Girl Scout Week

The time is ripe for constructive and extensive improvement in our society.

Young people are the ones who will be active in changing our institutions.

Adult citizens of the community—as individuals or as members of local organizations and clubs—should involve themselves in helping youth redesign the nation nearer to a realization of the American dream. Being aware of youth in a negative way is becoming a national adult habit. Perhaps we should retool ourselves to be aware of the large percentage of youth-on-the-move who are seeking and learning constructive methods of achieving the changes so badly needed in our society.

Girl Scouts of the U. S. A. is one organization that is teaching youth the positive approach to responsible citizenship. For 58 years, good citizenship has been part-and-parcel of the Girl Scout movement. So have been the teaching and learning of enduring values—high standards to live by all one's life.

"Awareness—Action" is the theme Girl Scouts of the United States of America, the world's largest girl youth organization, has chosen for the next three years. During this Girl Scout Week, be aware of the active contributions the Girl Scouts are making in our own community and throughout the country. To the approximately four million girls, men and women in Girl Scouting, we extend congratulations for Girl Scout Birthday 1970 and best wishes for continuing effectiveness in training youth for leadership and happy, responsible citizenship.

The Silent Students

There is a silent majority of students who give of their time and strength to help others. They don't have time to shout and fight and carry placards. First Lady Pat Nixon has embarked on a tour to visit them in their colleges, to see their volunteer work and to encourage them. It is high time that our hard working and unsung students get such attention.

The President's wife said she is not afraid of demonstrations that might erupt as she goes about her calls. "The right of dissent is a right that is guaranteed in this country," she acknowledged. Nor is she revolted by the long hair and beards of some of the volunteers. Her daughters and their friends have conditioned her to today's youth and she loves them all.

Overlooked by the public, who read and view street battles and student strikes and disorders avidly, are the countless quiet young men and women who are tutoring the slower pupils, work as teachers' aides, clean up slums, give long hours to understaffed hospitals and their patients, carry meals and love to the confined elderly, etc., etc.

Pat Nixon has discovered an untapped treasure vein. She can ease their burdens by recognizing their sacrifices. They are giving the rest of us a meaningful lesson in these last weeks of Lent.

Unexpected Business Surge

Inflation and high interest rates have not discouraged American business from more and bigger investment outlays. Pierre Renfret, president of a New York-based financial advisory service, predicts that business will spend $85.4 billion in 1970, a 12.5 per cent rise in planned expenditures. The figure compares with the President's economic message estimate of an eight per cent increase.

The year 1969 set a record of $75.9 billion investment outlay. The jump of $9.5 billion in 1970 would be the biggest dollar gain in history. Surprisingly, Renfret forecasts that it would be concentrated in the service area of the economy, rather than the manufacturing.

Renfret said that his data has been made available to members of the Federal Reserve Board and that, in his opinion "they make it impossible for the Federal Reserve to ease money availability to any significant degree. To do so would be to feed the fires of inflation."

Renfret was an economic advisor to Mr. Nixon during the last campaign, but he has consistently disagreed with administration economic policy. The unexpected exuberance in the capital goods sector, shown by his survey, reinforces his belief that "there ain't gonna be no recession."

We can't quarrel with that, but we do wish that business would not feed the fires of inflation in its own way by such record breaking—or should we say, reckless?—capital investment plans.

Kill or Cure

President Asa S. Knowles of Northeastern University in Boston thinks the student rebellion on the nation's college and university campuses eventually turn out to have been a healthy thing.

On the other hand, he warns, it could very well destroy these institutions.

As they used to say to nervous draftees in the Army, one of two things will happen: You'll either get killed in the war or you won't.

In either case, you'll have nothing to worry about.

"Take That--and That!"

David Lawrence Says Reds Encouraged to Prolong War by Members of Congress

WASHINGTON — There are two ways for members of Congress to conduct themselves during a war. One is to seek answers to their criticisms privately from the executive branch of the government, and the other is to denounce policies openly and, in effect, give "aid and comfort" to the enemy. Unfortunately, too many examples of the latter method — presumably a means of seeking popularity with uninformed citizens — have occurred recently in connection with America's alleged entry into "another war" in Laos.

President Nixon found it necessary to issue a 3,000-word statement giving the facts. But most newspapers printed only a summary, and the critics already had created disturbing impressions with fragmentary charges. Why is it that some members of Congress consider their political speeches more important than the effect these utterances may have on the enemy, who has obviously been encouraged to believe that the United States will surrender in Southeast Asia? Military problems are not readily explained to the general public. Nor are the risks and dangers of letting the Communists believe the United States will throw in the sponge fully realized.

President Nixon in his statement on Laos made these significant points:
1. North Vietnam in the last few months has raised the number of its troops in Laos to more than 67,000.
2. The North Vietnamese have been involved in Laos since 1961, when President Kennedy said:

"Laos is far away from America, but the world is small...the security of all Southeast Asia will be endangered if Laos loses its neutral independence."

3. In 1962, fourteen nations — including North Vietnam — signed the Geneva Accords providing for the neutralization of Laos, but Hanoi has steadily violated the agreement.
4. Since 1964, over a half-million North Vietnamese troops have moved down the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos to invade South Vietnam. This infiltration route "provides the great bulk of men and supplies for the war in South Vietnam."

5. The Nixon administration, on coming into office after six years of seasonal Communist attacks in Laos, continued the assistance program which dated back to 1963 and the air operations which began in 1964.
The President reiterated that the United States "has no ground combat forces in Laos," and that "we have used air power for the purpose of interdicting the flow of North Vietnamese troops and supplies on that part of the Ho Chi Minh trail which runs through Laos."

The President made it clear that he has "no plans for introducing ground combat forces into Laos." He declared the total number of Americans directly employed by the U.S. government in Laos is 616. On the subject of air operations, the President asserted: "As Commander-in-Chief of our armed forces, I consider it my responsibility to use our air power to interdict this flow of supplies and men through Laos) into South Vietnam and thereby avoid a heavy toll of American and allied lives."

In every instance our combat air operations have taken place only over those parts of Laos occupied and contested by North Vietnamese and other Communist forces. They have been flown only when requested by the Laotian government."

Mr. Nixon stated that he is continuing "the purposes and operations of two previous administrations," and that this has been necessary "to protect American lives in Vietnam and to preserve a precarious but important balance in Laos."

Certainly every member of Congress, irrespective of party, has a responsibility to use his influence to prevent what he thinks is an unnecessary American participation in a war. But there is a right way and a wrong way to do it. Each house of Congress has a foreign affairs committee. When a majority of a committee thinks a resolution should be adopted limiting the power of the executive branch of the government to carry on any military operation, this can be adopted by a majority vote of Congress.

Under present practices, a small number of members of the House and Senate attack defense policies and give the enemy the impression that American public opinion is not supporting the executive. This encourages the Communists to prolong their warfare against American troops in Southeast Asia.

Jack Anderson Says Hruska, Fong and Dodd Try To Hush Insurance Scandal

WASHINGTON — The insurance industry, with its billions of dollars, has influential friends on Capitol Hill who do their best work against policyholders in dark secrecy.

Thus Senators Roman Hruska, R-Neb., Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, and Tom Dodd, D-Conn., the three musketeers of the insurance industry, made sure the doors were shut tight when they tried to hush up an insurance scandal.

Dodd, fearing their skulduggery would be exposed, grumbled at the December meeting that it was "outrageous" and a "disgrace" that their secret proceedings sometimes leaked into the press.

Despite their tight security, however, this column has now obtained a verbatim account of the Fix That Failed.

Senator Phil Hart, D-Mich., the Senate Anti-Trust chairman, called the secret meeting to get approval to send an investigative report by staff consultant Bernard Webb to the Wisconsin Insurance Commission.

The Webb report blows the lid off a scheme by high Republicans, including Assistant Secretary of Defense Robert Froehke, to convert Hardware Dealers Mutual Fire Insurance, a Wisconsin outfit with $86 million in assets, into a stock company. This would have transferred control of the mutual company from the 341,500 policyholders to president John Joanis, Froehke, and 31 of their pals.

Froehke resigned as a Hardware vice president when his friend, Secretary of Defense Mel Laird, brought him into the Pentagon. Yet Froehke attended a board meeting after his resignation and retained a $200,000 share in the stock company deal.

$10 Million Deal
All told, the 33 stood to make a $10 million bonanza at the expense of the policyholders. The Webb report showed that the Wisconsin Insurance Department had actually helped with the planning. And the Chase Manhattan Bank assisted with a $4.5 million loan promise, worked out secretly in advance.

Hart convened the meeting in Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield's private conference room, explaining that Hruska had insisted on the secrecy to keep the Webb report from leaking out. Public disclosure of it, of course, would have foiled the takeover scheme.

"I thought," said Hart, "we would forward the testimony — but not officially — to the Wisconsin Commission," then about to hold hearings on the takeover, he looked warily at the lantern-jawed Hruska. "In the judgment of Professor Webb," said Hart, the takeover "raises very serious questions."

But Hruska was ready with his objections. His committee aide, Pete Chumbris, had been primed by the company's general counsel and vice president who had been sent an advance copy of the report by the scrupulous Hart.

"I would say on ethical grounds we are on awfully skippy, skippy ice," scowled Hruska. Thus, ironically, in the name of ethics, he objected to sending the report to the Commission in order to protect the policyholders. Hruska is no expert on ethics. Only three weeks earlier, he had collected a $1,000 speaking fee from the insurance industry.

The Senator from Nebraska, shaking his jowls at Hart, also questioned the accuracy of the Webb report and warned Hart: "We are interlopers, complete interlopers...I think it is reprehensible...We have no business (intervening) in this."

Hart gently replied that such questions, if they needed clearing up, "could be asked at the Wisconsin hearing."

"Sure it could be," retorted Hruska, with a sarcastic edge to his voice, "and we could also go into the private chamber of the judge and say, 'Judge, we have some information here...But what business is it of ours?'"

More Secrecy
Then Fong, the suave millionaire president of Grand Pacific Life Insurance of Hawaii, turned on Hart, too.

First of all," he said blandly, "I do not think we have an obligation to do it. Secondly, I think it would be officious on our part to tell (the Wisconsin Commissioner) that we have something like this." Thus Fong, who made no complaint about the company getting a copy of the critical report, objected to letting the public and policyholders see it.

Dodd, the third musketeer, quickly sided with the other two, but he feared the public might learn of his secret efforts to muzzle the story of the attempted takeover. He warned of press leaks.

"There is too much of that around here. It is all a disgrace," he said, peering about, as if the dignified Negro serving coffee might be listening in.

Hart cautioned that if the coup succeeded in Wisconsin, it would open the floodgates to similar takeovers, costing millions of insured Americans hundreds of millions of dollars.

Already the counsel for County Mutual Insurance of Bloomington, Ill., had written confidentially to Hardware lawyers about "converting our mutual casualty and property insurance company to a stock company."

And Union Mutual Life Insurance of Portland, Me., with assets of $239 million and a board made up of prestigious GOP businessmen, had also written to Hardware for information on how to do it.

Meanwhile, cracker-voiced John McClellan, D-Ark., had been let in through the closed doors. Despite banking conflicts of his own, there was too much of the inquisitive cop in McClellan for Hruska to take him for granted.

"John...there is a matter of ethics involved here," said Hruska, again raising ethics to defend the unethical.

"Here is...a pending proceeding in Wisconsin," McClellan cocked his old rooster eye at Hruska.

"It is being contested?"

"It is in full force and flower — tight now," soothed Hruska.

"IS it being contested?"

demanding McClellan, now skeptical.

"Oh," conceded Hruska, seeing another vote slip out of his hands, "I suppose it is."

Another installment, illustrating how the special interests pull political strings in the back rooms will be published in a future column.

Henry J. Taylor Says Kremlin Now Moves on Iran

Behind the scenes the pro-American Shah of Iran, Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, 50, is caught anew in the Soviet nutcracker. The Kremlin proceeds like a good general on the battlefield, taking one pivotal position to dominate the next pivotal position, and immense Iran is a vital pawn in the Soviet's Mediterranean penetration.

The worried Shah's country is larger than Alaska. In fact, it is nearly as large as all America east of the Mississippi. Iran, derived from Aryan and long referred to as Persia borders on the U.S.S.R., Afghanistan, Pakistan, Iraq, and Turkey. And that's the rub.

Its Soviet border is more than 1,000 miles long. The Trans-Iranian railroad has 4,100 bridges and 54 miles of tunnels, which means easy crippling by an enemy. Its airports at Tehran, Isfahan, Shiraz and Abadan are totally vulnerable. And, as the world's fourth largest oil producer, the Soviet could snuff out in a twinkling its four main export ports and the Persian Gulf's new $92 million Kharg Island oil-loading terminal, which is the pride and joy of the Shah.

As one result, the Kremlin has tucked under its belt a contract to build near Isfahan Iran's first steel mill and the Shah has authorized the purchase of Soviet aircraft, military equipment, etc. This is blackmail, but it is effective. It was an appeasement gesture to the U.S.S.R. and Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser alike—a product of their joint squeeze on the Shah.

In this part of the world where the sun was born ancient Phrygia was the home of the Gordian knot. The people believed that the man who untied it would be king. Alexander the Great arrived and cut it with his sword—as easy as that. But the Kremlin knot is made of much tougher and more subtle stuff and the entire region is literally made to order for intrigue. It is a way of life centuries old. And the Communists, in turn, never do anything openly they can achieve by stealth.

Iraq, more than twice the size of Utah, stands beyond Iran in the sequence of continuous pivotal places to dominate in changing the geopolitical balance in the vital European-Mideast area.

The Kremlin's subversives are at work in Baghdad, as in Iran, like fiddle crabs busy at their hidden business in the sand. The results have frightened Iraq to announce new oil development loans from the U.S.S.R. and place an estimated 12,000 troops in Jordan and another 6,000 in Syria as part of the general Kremlin-sponsored confrontation with Israel.

Jordan stands beyond Iraq in the pivotal sequence. Both Nasser and the U.S.S.R. are playing a cat-and-mouse game there with solidly pro-American King Hussein. Exactly as Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi emphasized to this writer Iran's vulnerability, King Hussein has made it clear that Nasser and the U.S.S.R. have chosen him to be a John the Baptist and lose his head in freedom's cause.

Syria, the land that St. Paul walked, likewise stands on the flank of Iraq, Nasser, along with the U.S.S.R., supports Syria's frontier and internal conflicts and his saboteurs have been arrested while penetrating clandestinely at St. George's Bay.

In addition, the main commando organization, Al Fatah, led by fanatical Yasir Arafat, a Cairo-educated Palestine Arab, is moving to take the Palestine Arabs in Syria and elsewhere out of the hands of the Arab world leaders and into its own.

This violent group is running wild there, and inside its Lebanon base has fought battles with Maj. Gen. Emile Bustani's (American-equipped) Lebanese Army, and threatened the existence of Lebanon's government itself.

Mediterranean means "middle of the world," of course, and the south rim is a land bridge to three continents: Asia, Africa, Europe. The Soviet's lodgement in Egypt is the counterpart of the Soviet's Caribbean lodgement. Nasser is the Kremlin's Castro in the Mediterranean. And the Kremlin's current behind-the-scenes pressure on the Shah of Iran is the frontal push against each contiguous link in a Mediterranean strategy dedicated to a military-political outflanking of NATO and all of Western Europe.

Set Deadline On Cleanup of Empire Diner

KINGSTON — Alderman Peter Mancuso (D-12th Ward) told The Freeman today that registered letters have been sent to the owners of the vacant Empire Diner on Central Broadway ordering them to comply with city building regulations.

Mancuso raised the issue at the March meeting of the Common Council noting that the diner had been vacant for some time and that it had become "an eyesore and a disgrace to the city."

The owners have 10 days to clean up the debris in the building, Mancuso said. Failure to do so could result in the demolition of the building and the costs charged to the owner.

The land is owned by the Cordis Realty Company and the owner of the diner is reportedly Peter Lukas of Kingston.

If we didn't offer auto loans...

you might still be riding horses

Can you imagine commuting, shopping or taking a trip today on horseback? We can't. Horses wouldn't satisfy the needs of our modern customers. Neither will assembly line, look-alike auto loans. At RONDOUT NATIONAL we have "customerized" auto loans based upon the individual's needs and budget. When you're looking for a new car, stop in at any of our four convenient locations and talk with our loan specialists. They'll show you a wide variety of loans and help you select the easy payment schedule that suits your budget best. Our prompt, courteous service and "customerized" auto loans make buying a new car a pleasure. Maybe that's why you don't see many horses on Main Street today.

Take Care of Woolens

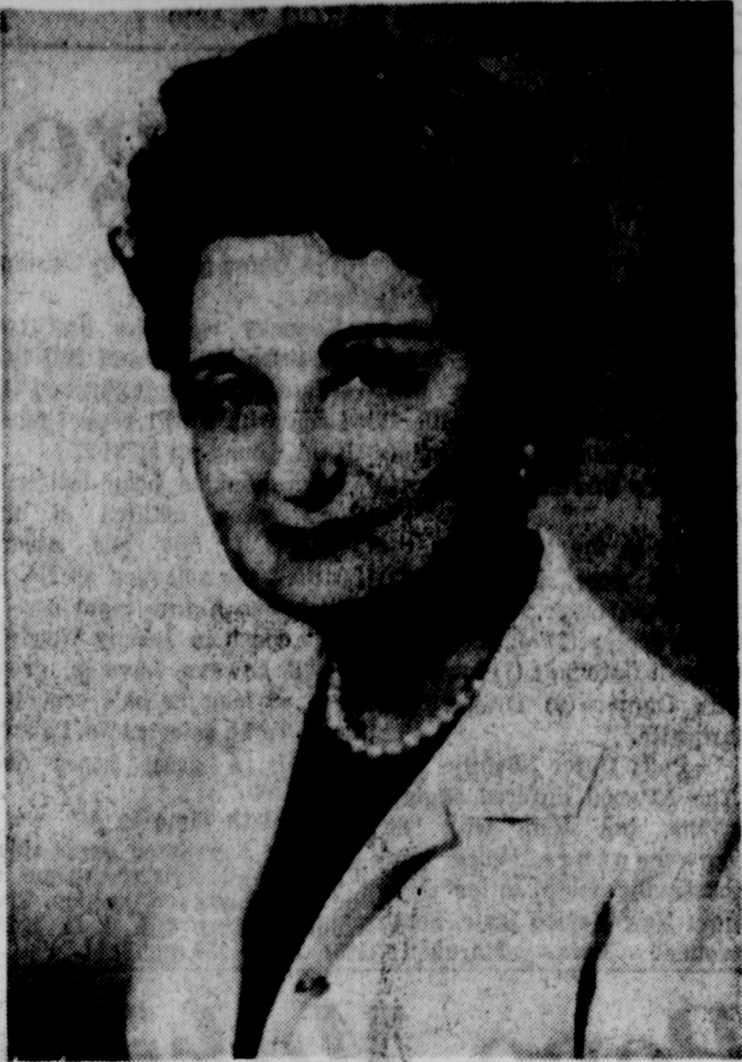

Learn to take care of your woolens to keep them in shape. Always hang garments up immediately after wearing. Wool fibers are elastic and light wrinkles will usually "stretch out" overnight. You can quickly steam away more firmly set wrinkles from packing or wearing by hanging the garments in the bathroom while you lather up in a hot shower.

TEETHING PAIN?

Dear Heloise:

I have a mighty large family to feed and am always trying to figure out something that will feed my crew without spending a fistful of money. With the hearty eaters that I have, it is impossible.

One of my favorites (and I might add theirs too) is stew. I buy about two pounds of stew meat and a half pound of hamburger. While I am browning the stew meat, I add the hamburger and brown it too. Then I add the onions, garlic and canned beef broth (bouillon cubes with water will do fine). Cook, cook and cook this (in other words, cook the daylight out of it). About 45 minutes before the stew is done, add your vegetables.

The hamburger meat is the secret. Besides stretching the meat, it thickens the gravy and gives the stew added flavor.

This can be eaten as is or poured over egg noodles. And you have food fit for your king and his subjects.

V. E.

And you're the queen bee for keeping that family full and happy . . . Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Would you please be kind enough to tell your readers that when food is spilled on a shelf in the refrigerator, to wipe it up immediately?

It drips down from shelf to shelf.

Are you aware that some foods, when spilled, will ruin the finish on the bottom of the refrigerator?

You'll need sudsy water to wash with because a lot of food contains acid. Then rinse and wipe dry.

Dear Heloise:

To lengthen curtains by a few inches or to remodel them into cafes, sew ribbon loops four-to-five inches apart on the tops.

They open and close easily.

Kentucky King Again in College Basketball

THE NEW GM — Ned Irish (L) president of the New York Knickerbockers and William (Red) Holzman, the Knick coach pose after Irish announced that Holzman would replace Eddie Donovan as general manager for the time being. What Next for 76ers?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

First Archie Clark's losing photo-finish. Then Wally Jones gets defeated by a nose. What next for the Philadelphia 76ers? Clark is out with a hip injury after banging into a television camera Sunday in a National Basketball Association game with New York. And Monday night, Jones suffered a nose injury in Philadelphia's 131-112 victory over San Diego.

Jones received the painful injury in the first period and after being worked on by two doctors, did not bow out until the final seconds of the game. Doctors indicated the nose was not broken, but said Jones probably would not be available for Saturday night's game in Los Angeles.

In the night's only other game, Lew Alcindor led Milwaukee to a 124-105 victory over Seattle.

In the American Basketball Association, New Orleans defeated Kentucky 117-114.

The 76ers lost a pair of early, 11-points leads but came back behind Hal Greer's 39 points. Elvin Hayes, with 32 points and 25 rebounds, led the early San Diego rallies that enabled the Rockets to draw even at 75 midway through the third period.

But Greer and Billy Cunningham, who hit for 33, led a 76er surge that put the game out of reach.

Alcindor scored 25 points in an abbreviated appearance, an intimidated opposition in another one-man show. Once the 7-2 rookie took the ball away from a Seattle guard, and another time dribbled half the length of the court, passing behind his back for an assist.

Bob Rule scored 19 points to top the SuperSonics, who were never in the game.

Kentucky is king again in college basketball.

Coach Adolph Rupp's Wildcats were named United Press International and Associated Press National basketball champion Monday for a record fourth and sixth time respectively.

Kentucky wound up with 19 first place votes and 304 points, 14 more than UCLA, the season long leader in the UPI's balloting.

The Bruins who saw their chances for repeating as national champion fade when they were upset by Southern California last week, drew 11 State.

The Wildcats held a much wider margin in the final Associated Press poll, with 18 first place ballots and 512 points to UCLA's three firsts and 440 votes.

Others in the top ten in the UPI poll were, in order: (3) St. Bonaventure, (4) New Mexico State, (5) Jacksonville, (6) South Carolina, (7) Iowa, (8) Notre Dame, (9) Drake, (10) Marquette.

Kentucky won the first two UPI titles in 1951 and 1952 and repeated in 1966. It finished the season with a 25-1 record while UCLA wound up at 24-2.

"I'm glad to hear it," said Rupp when notified of the honor. "I felt our record justified the selection as No. 1."

Kentucky's first obstacle will not be an easy one. The Wildcats edged Notre Dame 102-100 at Louisville on Dec. 27 as the Irish high scoring Austin Carr blistered the nets for 42 points.

Carr broke the NCAA tournament record against Ohio University last Saturday with 61 points.

When the Yanks finally gave up on him and shipped him to Houston in a deal for Curt Blefary, Pepitone said he was thrilled with the deal and was happy to get a fresh start where there was no pressure on him. But some skeptics wondered how Pepitone's long hair and his hair dryer would be greeted in Texas—where long hair isn't as common as it is in his home town.

The No. 1 ranking may be frosting on the cake, but for Rupp the season is far from over.

Mideast Region is the strongest of the bunch."

The winners of the Kentucky-Notre Dame and Jacksonville-Iowa games will meet for the Mideast Region championship.

PURDUE'S ALL-AMERICA basketball whiz, Rick Mount, is expected to sign a contract with the American Basketball Association's Indiana Pacers, according to the Indianapolis News. The contract reportedly covers more than one year and involves nearly $500,000. Statistics Failed to Tell the Story

By JIM MASSA

KINGSTON

Statistics normally reflect the winning team in almost any type of contest in the sports world. But recently, those usually all-important statistics haven't meant a thing.

The Baltimore Colts were better "on paper" but lost to the New York Jets. The Baltimore Bullets lost four straight to the New York Knicks and the Baltimore Orioles, best team on paper in a decade, were drubbed by the New York Mets in the World Series in five games.

Oh, yes, didn't Jerry The Greek have the Minnesota Vikings pegged over the Kansas City Chiefs?

Ulster County Community College, the best team in Region XV on paper (and, we believe, also on the court in the tournament), lost out to the No. 4 seeded team—Nassau—in the semi-finals Friday night in Middletown. The Senators (again on paper) going into the tournament were the best. At the end of the tournament statistic-wise, they were still the best.

UCC Would Have Won

Ulster won only two games and Suffolk won three. But nobody will ever know what the outcome of a Suffolk-Ulster might have been—at least not in this year's tournament. We think it would have been close, but give the Senators a 3-5 point edge.

In an article written by Bob

Abborino for the Middletown Record, he said the spectators changed our game. We have set our defense to go against certain offenses to go against certain type defenses. Our failure to execute our offense against their defense caused our defeat. We simply choked."

Aggressive Coach

Any coach, team that has played the Senators (and spectators) know that Perry is aggressive and demands perfection from tee to tee. Although we don't adhere to all of Perry's demands, how much can you fault a guy who has won 100 ball games in only five years of coaching. Perry's teams have lost only 27 games, giving him a winning percentage of .787.

Before the tournament and after Ulster's loss to Nassau, more than one coach still claimed that Ulster was the best team in the tournament, even though they lost. We wholeheartedly agree.

Still the Greatest

Rondout-Highland In Section Nine

KINGSTON

Action continues tonight in the Section Nine High School basketball tournament with four games on tap. In Class B, Rondout Valley, winners of the Ulster County Athletic League, will face a tough Nanuet squad at the New Paltz High School gym, starting at 7 p.m. While in Class C, Highland, runners-up in the UCL, meet Liberty in an 8:30 game at New Paltz.

Other action finds Port Jervis and Nyack meeting in the B Class at Valley Central in a 7 p.m. tilt, while Highland Falls takes on Minisink in the second Class C tilt at Valley Central.

Finals for all classes will be played Friday. In Class A, Newburgh, DUSO League winners, will face Clarkstown, the 10th ranked team in the State by the Associated Press poll, at New Paltz College, in Elting gym, at 8:30.

Tonight's winners in the B Division will face each other Friday in an 8:30 game at Valley Central. The C winners will play at the College Friday night at 7 p.m., while D Class, Jefferson-Youngville and Livingston Manor, will play for the D crown at Valley Central in a 7 p.m. tilt.

The Ganders, 11-2 in UCL play, including a playoff win over Highland, count heavily on the scoring of Pete Koola and the rebounding of Larry Baney. When these two boys are off, the champs are in trouble. Koola came through with 37 points in the playoffs title with Highland and will need a big game tonight if his team is to win.

Highland also has a great rebounding duo in the Monroe brothers, Perry and Ron, and a big scoring threat in guards John Crawford and Hardy Marx. Perry Munro is probably the strongest player in the UCL. His battling Baney and Koola off the boards kept the Highlanders in the game when Marx was off-target and Crawford, who was covering Koola, had to sit out with four fouls.

his 36-point performance. The record, as far back as we can check, rightfully belongs to none other than the Senators' all-time single season and single game record holder — Jumpin' Joe Uhl. Uhl scored 40 points in Trenton, N.J. in the 1967 regional tournament against Wesley. Ulster didn't win the tournament but they got further than any previous Senator team. In two previous outings, Ulster lost the opening game. John MacMahon, of the Orange CCC staff, certainly deserves congratulations for the fine job he and his staff did for the press in the accommodations and information categories.

All in all, we felt the tournament was a good one and you don't often see too many overtime games. We got to see two the same night. Suffolk won it all, so we will be supporting them at Dutchess Community College gym Wednesday night

When they take on the Region III champs, Broome Tech, at 8 p.m.

Dear Abby

'Nuts' to Go Along?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: John and I have been married for 17 years. We have 3 children. Three years ago John became involved with Lynn, my best friend, but I didn't find out about it until 2 months ago when Lynn's husband caught them. He left her and filed for divorce so she may get my husband yet.

This isn't John's first affair, but I have always forgiven him and taken him back. He has moved in with Lynn, and now he tells me he is too involved to break up. He says he never dreamed she would give up her husband and children for him. (What "give up?" Her husband caught her, moved out and took their 3 children to his mother's.)

Now John says he will have to do what will bother his conscience less. He says Lynn threatens if he leaves her because now she has nothing to live for. John says I am a stranger woman and wouldn't do anything foolish, but Lynn might. In the meantime John is living with her. Lynn has my husband, and I am trying to raise 2 teen-aged children without a father. Am I nuts to go along with this?

DEAR WONDERING: Nuts? No. Gullible, yes.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column, a lady complained because at the home of her gentleman friend, toothpicks were passed around the table after dinner. Believe it or not, this is a very old European custom. I remember that in my parents' home, after a formal dinner, the maid would pass a tray containing finger bowls and toothpicks. However, the proper way to use a toothpick was to pick the teeth with one hand, using the other hand to "shield" the mouth so that the actual act of teeth-picking was not exposed to view.

BORN IN GERMANY DEAR ABBY: Thank you for your informative letter. The finger bowls may stay. But the toothpicks have GOT to go!

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to a young woman who has worn eyeglasses ever since I've known her. I never thought they detracted from her appearance. In fact, I thought her glasses were rather handsome.

Suddenly, my girl appeared without her glasses! I was shocked, but not particularly pleased, as I had become accustomed to seeing her in glasses, and she didn't look like herself without them.

She told me she had been fitted for contact lenses, and she seemed so thrilled about it. I told her quite frankly that if she had discussed it with me first I would have told her to stay with her glasses.

Now I am wondering, for whom she is wearing contact lenses? Surely not for me! Should I put her to the test, and ask her to choose between me and the contact lenses?

PREFERS SPECS DEAR ABBY: Perhaps she is pleasing only herself, which is her privilege. Having told her that you prefer eyeglasses to contact lenses, drop it. If you insist that she make a choice between you and the contact lenses, she will need neither contact lenses nor glasses to see the handwriting on the wall.

DEAR ABBY: What's wrong with a girl calling a boy on the telephone? My mother says it's wrong, but she can't give me a good reason. If you want to know about a homework assignment or something like that, what is wrong with it?

NANCI DEAR ABBY: Girls shouldn't call boys because the boy might get the idea that she is chasing him, which is the last thing a girl wants a boy to think — especially if she is. If a girl wants to know about a homework assignment or something like that, she'd be wise to call another girl.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

(Hear Dear Abby Mon. thru Sat. at 9:10 a.m. WKNY-1450.)

Horoscope By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny... astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY MARCH 11, 1970

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Money situation needs review. There is diversity of opinion. You may be drawn in two directions. Be sensible, but don't skimp on giving pleasure to loved ones. Message clarified by tonight.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): What appears adverse is likely to boomerang in your favor. Seek harmony. Be happy. Weight that seems to oppress you is temporary. Take it easy. Make peace gesture to family member.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You may find great outlet in work, exercise. This is no time to confine yourself. Think of where you are going rather than where you have been. Be perceptive. See through attempted sham.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Some friends seem depressed. Don't attempt to be a backyard psychologist. Help those who want to aid themselves. Steer clear of emotional entanglements of others.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Realize you have some finishing touches to perform. Don't feel you must imprint your personal desires. What you want comes to you. You do not need to force issues.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You may feel grass is greener at a distance. But truth is you can create your own destiny. This is not meant to be metaphysical. Today — right now — you have required assets for success.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Check financial resources. Checking account may need some beefing up — be realistic. Intuitive intellect is sharp. But you could also use some practical advice from knowledgeable person.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You may be in expansive mood. This could result in expensive action. Have fun without being careless, extravagant. You are going to be very pleasantly surprised.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Adhere to rules. Be thorough. You cannot be an innovator without being imbued with basic information. Plainly, you must learn rules before breaking them. Be patient with your-self.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You face some realities about romantic interests. If you expect perfection, disappointment arrives. If practical and mature, satisfaction could make an appearance. Think.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You may not get your price. But you do make definite gains in security area. You improve your standard of living. You are more secure inwardly. People express confidence in your views.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Say no to journey which can lead you in circles. Your potential is great. But you have been receiving advice which is less than realistic. Play waiting game.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are a natural teacher. You can help others — now start aiding yourself. Get down to basic issues. You can and will clear away emotional debris.

One of the common methods of betting at the horse races is to combine the horse you think will win the first race in daily doubles with every horse in the second race. If your first race horse loses, you tear up your tickets and charge your loss to experience, but if he wins you can sit back for the second race and cry "Come on, anybody." You are sure to win.

It will be noted that South would also have made the game by playing his ace of diamonds but that, if East held the diamond queen, the ace second race. If your first race horse loses, you tear up your tickets and charge your loss to experience, but if he wins you can sit back for the second race and cry "Come on, anybody." You are sure to win.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

NUMBER 2: (Q.) I am going steady with this boy. I love him and he loves me. But he still has his mind on a girl who let him down.

I asked him to let me prove that I'm better than she is. He said that wasn't necessary.

I've tried to be a good girl friend to him, but he still wants her. If I have to give him up I'll go back to drugs. What can I do to keep him? —Heartbroken in Philadelphia.

(A.) You can't make him forget her. You can make him love you. Going back to drugs wouldn't solve anything. Your answer is to find a boy who can see you as No. 1 and treat you that way.

WET APPLE: (Q.) In the office of our school paper we have a custom called "the community apple." Each day one of us brings a big apple and we each take a bite out of it.

When I bite it I get saliva on it. No one will bite it after me. They all call me the Drip. Now my boyfriend is shying away from me. He thinks I'd be a sloppy kisser.

Do you think it's glands? Should I see a doctor? —The Drip in New York City.

(A.) First, your custom is dirty and ought to be dropped. Anyone who bites the apple may pass on illness or infection, whether he drools or not.

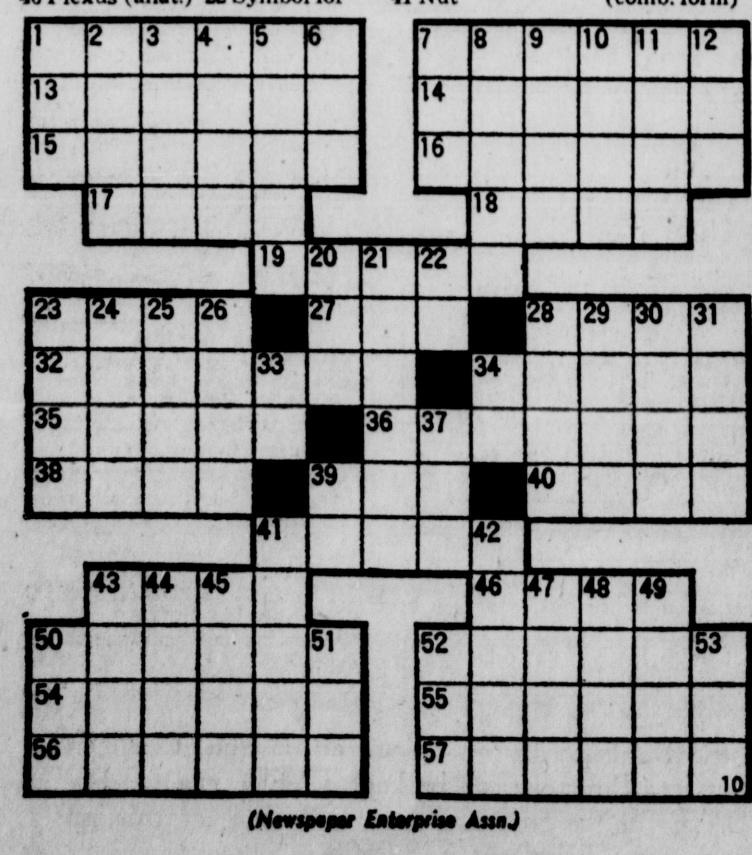

Second, saliva forms naturally at the sight or smell of food. It's a sign your glands are working OK.

Third, if your boyfriend is shying away, that leaves you free to find another boy friend as well as another set of friends. I recommend both steps.

'Sheba' a Grisly Situation

NEW YORK (AP) — An example of the junk coming out of Hollywood studios these days is "The Mask of Sheba" on NBC Monday night. At the base of the two-hour program was another variation of the youth-team format which will spread all over network television by next season.

The film, bearing all the earmarks of a pilot for a series, was hung on a group of young anthropologists who went ripping off through the Ethiopian jungles in search of a golden mask of a queen dead for 3,000 years and, almost coincidentally, a lost party of explorers.

The plot was so implausible and cliché-filled the viewer was inclined at times to believe that it had to be camp.

The anthropologists—two men and a girl doctor—joined by the wife of one of the missing men and an Ethiopian colonel, eventually arrived at a monastery atop a rock mountain and reached only by a rope ladder. Up there was a high priest with leprosy and, as it turned out, a secret cavern that held the golden mask.

Then the wife turned out to be a phony—a dreadful creature, played by the nice Inger Stevens. There was a lot of shooting and death at the end, and, of course, only the good people survived. The young unknown performers did their best in a pretty grisly situation.

Reuven Frank, NBC president for news, announced Monday that retiring Chet Huntley would be replaced by two of the network's senior staff men, John Chancellor and Frank McGee.

Huntley and David Brinkley, after more than 14 years in tandem, are a television institution and, for NBC, a very profitable team. Their evening half hour, with time for five minutes of commercials, is usually fully sponsored. It is reputed to cost sponsors in excess of $25,000 per minute.

Chancellor and McGee, while lacking some of the glamor of NBC's top team, have been around for a long time, are well-known by the public and respected as broadcast journalists.

Frank said that with Huntley's departure Aug. 1, the program would be broadcast seven nights a week and be renamed "NBC Evening News."

By having three anchormen—Brinkley working out of Washington and Chancellor and McGee in New York, each man will be able to spend more time developing stories.

Huntley-Brinkley report has been seen Monday through Saturday nights for 14 months. "The Frank McGee report," which will be absorbed into the Monday.

Board of Education Meeting

State Aid Theme in Rhinebeck

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK
Debate concerning school participation in a campaign for more state aid was a major theme at the Rhinebeck Board of Education meeting Monday night.

The issue was brought to light when Board President Robert W. Asher read a communication from the Dutchess County School Boards Association asking that individual schools participate in a special campaign week starting March 8 to move the public to support a larger ratio of state funds for public education.

The county-wide campaign is being aided by paid advertising and local districts were asked to solicit letter writing from the public and to distribute press releases noting the effects of present state legislation on school budgets for next year.

Board member Robert Grimm charged that it is unethical for a government agency, such as a school district, to propagate for its own benefit, and he said it is illegal for a district to use district funds to disseminate any such beneficial issues.

"I think a showing by the public should be initiated by the public," he said. "The whole idea is to gain more money from taxpayers through state aid."

statement by Boehm that they were subject to interpretation purposely. The announcement by Central Hudson Electric and Gas that rates will probably be up soon, subject to approval by the Public Service Commission, will have the effect of raising heating bills about 3 per cent, and general electrical costs more, according to Asher.

It was decided that a general informational meeting on the school district's budget will be held sometime during the week of March 24, prior to an actual public hearing on the proposed budget. This year, the annual meeting will be almost a month sooner than last year.

Citizen of Year

Noonday Award to Muller

By SHANE CROSBY

ELLENVILLE
Ellenville's Noonday Club "Citizen of the Year" award is always held as a dark secret until the evening of the awarding, but few recipients could have been as surprised as this year's who has covered the awarding ceremony in the past as a journalist.

Frank Muller, co-owner of the Ellenville Journal and active in village, town and county news and politics for most of his years here, was presented with the annual award Sunday.

Tributes heaped upon Muller at the ceremony were well deserved, for the man who has been held in high esteem by newspaper owners and reporters who have come in contact with him briefly or for long years of working even on opposing publications.

Although a graduate of Syracuse University, the 55-year-old journalist served in what can only be called "The Hard School" of hand-set type and hand-fed presses through the ins and outs of the "fourth estate" to his present position of high regard as an individual and as a newspaperman.

As a community-minded resident, Muller has amassed a long list of memberships and elected positions, some of the latter include his present duties as a member of the Ulster County Legislature, and past positions as village mayor, local school board member, town justice, and a term as chairman of the Wawarsing Republican Party; a collection that has given him the title of "Mr. Republican" in the Ellenville area.

In addition to being cited as an outstanding example of "what a newsman should be," and for his role in public service, Muller was also credited for his years of service to the Ellenville Little League, where he could be seen playing a double role of managing a baseball team on one hand and taking newspaper photos of his team's win or loss on the field.

A member of the Noonday Club for more than 20 years, Muller was lauded at the ceremony by Representative Hamilton Fish Jr., Peter J. Savago, chairman of the county Legislature; Albert Spada, county GOP chairman; and Frank Harkin, Wawarsing supervisor and town Republican chairman; as well as many other business leaders and associates.

Red Hook Meeting

Phys Ed Program Is Outlined

Peter Lawson, Chairman of the Physical Education Department, outlined the renovated workings of his department to the Red Hook Board of Education at its regular meeting Monday night.

Lawson said that the school had been operating since 1936 with no formalized curriculum. Under the advisement of the administrators, Lawson and his staff of eight started formulating a program "which would fit our particular situation," he said. The curriculum is almost completed.

The lack of adopting ready-made textbook ideas has resulted in some novel methods of instruction. Emphasis is placed upon self-discipline, competition, body awareness and an individual purpose.

Instead of repeating the same elementary exercise and movements for the entire school life, the child is encouraged to pursue his ability to its extent, picking up where he left off the year before.

The instructors on the elementary level attempt to make the children aware of body movements and coordination, with some physiology thrown in.

"This serves to encourage physical fitness for everyone," said Lawson, who took over the chairmanship last year.

District Principal Russell Keefe praised the efforts of the department, saying that "too often a school puts too much emphasis on interscholastic sports to the detriment of its internal program." Keefe said that members of other departments would be invited to address the board of education at future meetings.

In other business, Albany Avenue Garage of Kingston was the low bidder on three school buses out of 15 bidders, and was awarded the contract.

Several plans for additional bus storage space at the Mill Road School were outlined by Keefe, with estimates on alternatives due at the next board meeting.

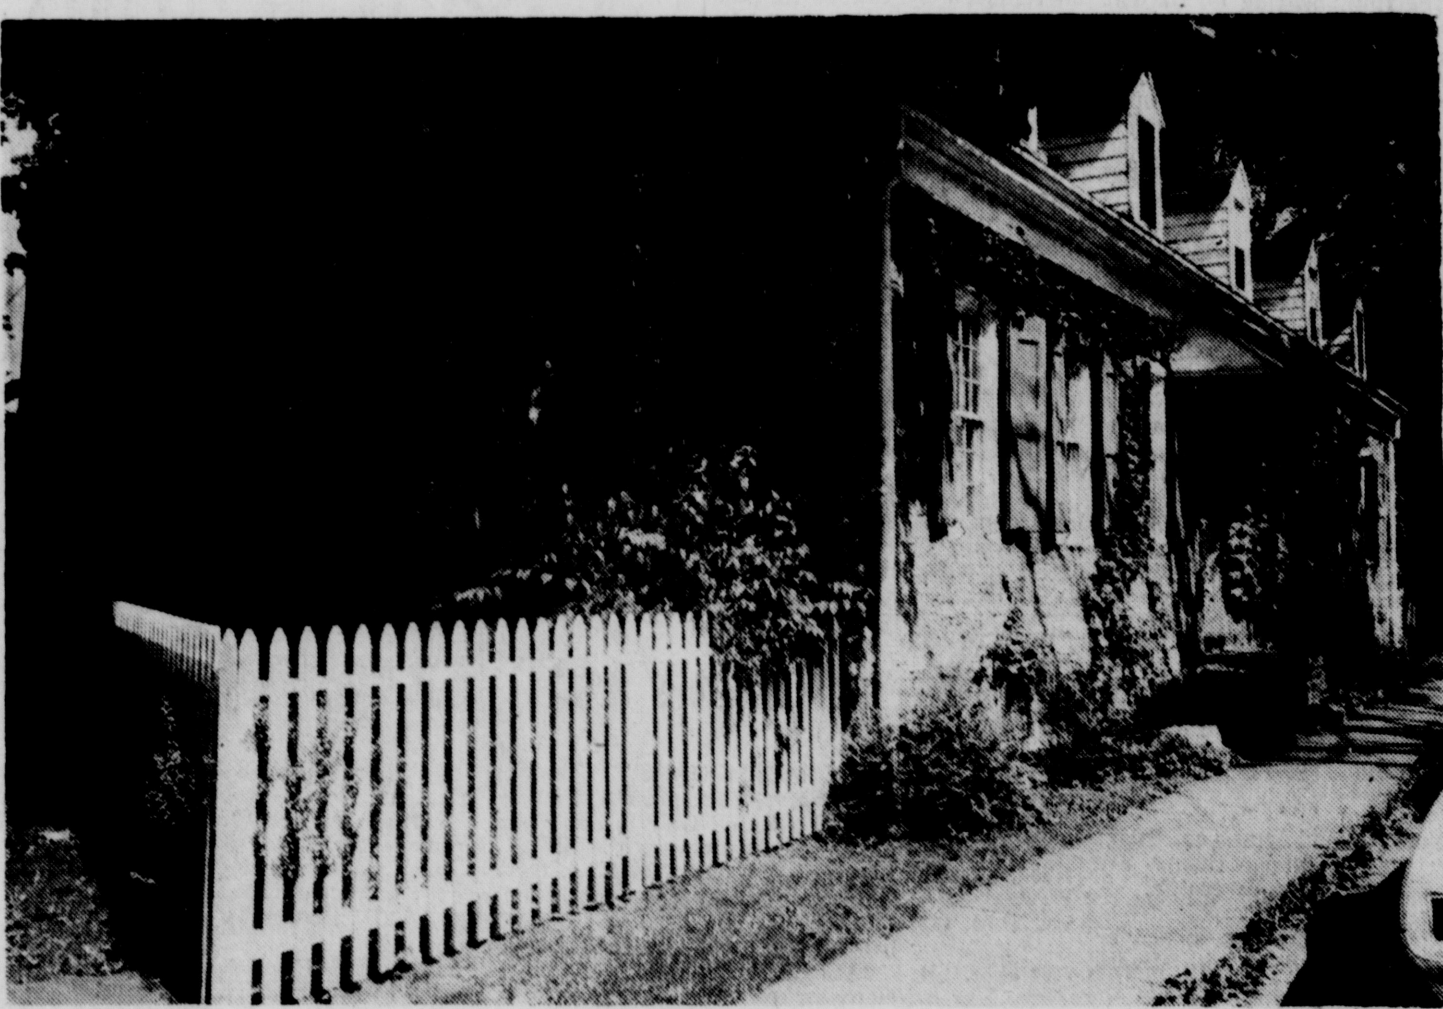

The target date for resumption of construction of a 36 room addition to the Mill Road School is March 15. Completion of footings and steelwork should begin by then.

The board moved to adopt the New York State retirement plan for non-teaching personnel. Salary notices have been issued to all teaching and non-teaching personnel. Non-teaching notices have been returned, and all teachers are asked to have their notices returned by March 31.

Keefe reported on a successful bond closing in New York March 4 for construction at Mill Road. The check for the total amount was deposited at Irving Trust Company to begin an investment program.

The senior class, with the approval of high school principal William Barringer, has asked the board for permission to have a day trip to a Catskill mountain resort in the late spring. Members of the board endorsed the idea. Such an excursion would include daytime sports activities, a dinner, and dancing with school transportation to and from the area.

Our historian friend admires the W. A. Carl home not only for its beauty but for its authenticity outside as well as inside. He pointed out that this was no small accomplishment since the original home was constructed roughly between 1710-1725 in the Kingston Stockade and then was burned by the British.

Some years later Smith Parish roofed this heirloom with asphalt shingles known as Fire Chex, (which produce a shadow line, thereby making the authenticity practical as well as beautiful). The British will never again be a threat to this home.

If your roof is threatened, your home is threatened. Why not give us a call? We're the people who care.
